

RAID WORKSHOP

RAID: an Association of students of Computer Application Department of Giani Zail Singh Punjab Technical University Campus Bathinda; taken an initiative to organize a one day work shop conducted by IBM INDIA. IBM has emphasized on software development technologies used at IBM.

Most importantly the training was handled by Mr. Rishi Gargi, perusing his B.Tech CSE degree from this Institute, at doing his six month training with IBM. He told that he has provided the similar training at Jaipur, Kurukshetra, Jammu and many other places of repute. This is a great moment of pride for the institute as this is the only non Centre of Excellence Institute where the workshop was conducted by IBM.

Mr. Rishi elaborated on Mobile Application Development. He provided onsite training to the gathering which includes faculty and students alike,

He provided the requisite tools and training manuals. The gathering was overwhelmed with the practical session and created simple applications for their mobile operating system using worklight tool.

He also told the students that IBM organizes a technical competition "The Great Mind Challenge" every year. This year the theme of the event is Mobile Application.

Mr. Rishi had participated last year competition and was among the top 15 teams and was judged as champion team. He encouraged the students to participate in the challenge and assured them to provide all technical help required.
